SHUTTLECOCKS ARE THE FOUNDATION OF BADMINTON

and at RSL, we set new standards to contribute to its ongoing development

RSL is the world's largest and leading manufacturer of shuttlecocks, and we strive every day to deliver the highest quality to badminton players worldwide.

In the city of Quzhou, China, RSL has established the world's largest and most advanced shuttlecock factory, where production adheres to the highest standards. The factory employs approximately 700 workers, making it a significant employer in the local area and ensuring proper working conditions for its employees.

Traditionally, shuttlecock production has been heavily reliant on manual labor. However, at RSL, we aim to integrate technology to automate processes, increasing production capacity, stability, and uniformity across all stages. By adhering to strict standards of quality and sustainability, we maximize the use of natural resources (feathers and cork), ensuring that our production is as environmentally friendly as possible.

RSL's shuttlecock factory in Quzhou, China, is a pioneer in product development - a cornerstone of our manufacturing process - and sets new benchmarks for the entire production system. At RSL, we maintain control over the entire supply chain, overseeing all processes from raw feathers to the finished shuttlecock. This is achieved through a high level of innovation and automation in multiple production stages.

At RSL, a shuttlecock is never "just" a shuttlecock. We aim to produce to the highest standards, doing so in a way that considers both product excellence and the welfare of employees and the environment. For example, RSL does not bleach feathers to achieve a white color but relies solely on the natural shade of the feathers. When selecting the perfect feathers, they are sorted into approximately 50,000 variations to find the ones that match best for creating the ideal shuttlecock.

Today, RSL operates 22 factories in China, producing all types of shuttlecocks, from low-end to high-end, catering to every level of badminton play.

FUN FACTS

RSL was established in 1928 in London, England.

In 1980, RSL moved its production and administration to China.

Today, RSL operates 22 factories in China.

RSL sorts feathers into 50,000 types to find the exact matches for the perfect shuttlecock.

Each year, RSL produces over 140 million shuttlecocks.

RSL makes significant investments in innovation and automation.

RSL has its own sales offices worldwide.

*RSL Shuttlecock Factory in Quzhou.
The worlds largest and most advanced shuttlecock factory, with the highest level of innovation and automation.*

At RSL we are controlling the whole supply chain, from the raw feather selection process, to the final shuttlecock.

New Technologies and a high volume of raw feathers, allow RSL to sort feathers into up to 50.000 types of feathers, to find the exact matches for the perfect shuttlecock.

*Automation makes a high level of stability and durability in the shuttlecock,
and RSL tests all shuttlecocks manually
to secure speed and flight.*

CLASSIC

RSL is known as one of the world's leading manufactures of shuttlecocks, and RSL Classic is a shuttlecock in the absolute world class. RSL Classic is particularly known for it's high recycling value, which means that many badminton clubs experience a greater saving in shuttlecock consumption.

The feathers for an RSL Classic go through a total of 19 steps in the selection process, before being approved to become part of one of the world's best shuttlecocks.

RSL Classic is made of a full goose feather construction, with a three piece cork base with a blend of natural cork and synthetic cork. This ensures a fantastic feeling with the shuttle, and the well-known durability.

RSL Classic is an approved tournament shuttlecock by the BWF (Badminton World Federation).

HOW TO CHOOSE YOUR RACKET

It can be difficult to choose a new racket, so we have tried to make it easy for you!
The most important factors when to choose a new racket are, the balance point and the stiffness in the shaft.
If you play a head heavy racket (a balance point on 300 mm and above) you will get more power in your strokes, and with a head light racket (a balance point below 300 mm), you will get faster movements with your racket.

If you are looking for a racket with more control, it could be useful with a stiff shaft in your racket. But if you are beginner or a player that needs a bit more power, then a softer shaft could be a way to improve your game.

For each racket we have created a diagram that describes the characteristics of the individual RSL models.

We hope you find the racket that suits your game.

We've made it easy for you:

WHAT DOES FLEXIBILITY MEAN FOR YOUR GAME

STIFF ○ ● ○ FLEXIBLE

When you use a flexible shaft in the racket, it means you get more power. If you are looking for massive control, you must choose a racket with a stiff shaft.

You have to decide for yourself what you need from you racket.

The decision about the flexibility of the shaft, is a way to give more power or control in your strokes, but this is often in combination with other characteristics in the racket such as weight and balance. Typically, a flexible shaft is most often combined with a lighter or more head-light racket, and a stiffer shaft is most often combined with slightly heavier and/or more head-heavy or even balanced racket.

MS10000V2

This racket is for the ambitious tournament player, who wants to control the game in all aspects. The racket has a frame widening from 2 o'clock to 10 o'clock, and again in the bottom of the head around the T-joint to stabilize the head, and make the frame stronger.

RSL Master Speed 10000 is a bit head heavy, and has an extra stiff shaft to maximize control and feeling with the shuttle. If you have the right feeling and touch, this racket will help you to improve both control and power in your game. The racket is made of the best material, with a 30 tons graphite in the head, and a 40 tons graphite in the shaft.
